A horse wandering around the streets yesterday afternoon attracted some attention and aroused some comment as to the ownership and the destination of the animal. The horse came down Washington street, and instead of turning into Main street and promading down through the business section, headed out Elm street. He was without harness, and seemed undecided as to his course. The supposed solution was that he had been unharnessed and sent home on his own word of honor.

A linen shower was given Lizzie Benvenuti last evening at the home of Mrs. Vettini of Pleasant street in honor of her approaching marriage. Many handsome pieces of embroidery were given by the 25 or more people present and her former companions in the shirt factory on Church street gave her a silver pitcher. Miss Benvenuti has been employed at the Peerless factory since completing work in the shirt factory. During the evening games were played, a mock marriage furnished much merriment and refreshments were served. In due course Mrs. Benvenuti for the success of the evening, as the planning and decorating were in her charge.

The meeting was held as a joint discussion with New England railway executives on readjustment of coal rates through New England. Mr. Waters is a member of the coal committee of the league.

The autopsy on the body of Louis A. Lebel, who was killed Sunday night by the automobile driven by Harold Bancroft, revealed that the back was broken between the sixth and seventh ribs, the break indicating that the body had been doubled up in some way. As already stated, one leg was broken below the knee and the other leg was injured in about the same position but not broken.

MONTPELIER

High-grade pianos, talking machines, Brunswick records, sold on easy terms at E. E. Clark's store, 132 Main street.—adv.

A new note in the farm bureau symphony was struck by one member of the Washington County Farm Bureau association, who stated his opinion yesterday that the farm bureau should change its policy and get into politics. Suggested methods were the election of representative farmers to legislative positions and the starting of more courses in civic government and spoken English in rural schools. The member called attention to the fact that a small group of men did most of the talking in the last legislature and stated his belief that the rest had ideas but were diffident about getting up their feet and talking. His speech was applauded.

A meeting of the Nisatin club of Northfield, at which Fish and Game Commissioner H. P. Sheldon was to have spoken last evening, was postponed. The club intended to organize as a fish and game club.
